HEAL EDUCATES WITH A COMMUNITY LIBRARY

The seed of imagination can be planted anywhere, but sometimes it needs a nurturing space to grow. HEAL Inc. took the tasks of planting that seed by providing funding to our partner 'Kid's Educational Engagement Project' (KEEP) in Liberia, West Africa to build a library in Bomi County.

EMPOWERMENT

HEAL Inc donated $6,000 to fund the creation of a brand-new reading room within the school. This dedicated space will provide students with a haven for exploration, literacy development, and a lifelong love of learning.

The funding has created an inviting atmosphere, complete with comfy furniture, lighting, and engaging décor. The space also provides a diverse collection of age-appropriate books, catering to a variety of interests and reading levels.

This initiative aligns perfectly with KEEP & HEAL'S visions.

By investing in literacy programs, the organizations empower children to become lifelong learners and find their pathway to success.

KEEP's founder and CEO Ms. Brenda Brewer Moore stated "her organization is incredibly grateful for HEAL Inc.'s support. This new reading room will be a transformative resource for the students. It will provide a comfortable and inviting environment where they can develop their reading skills, broaden their horizons, and foster a love for books that will stay with them for years to come."

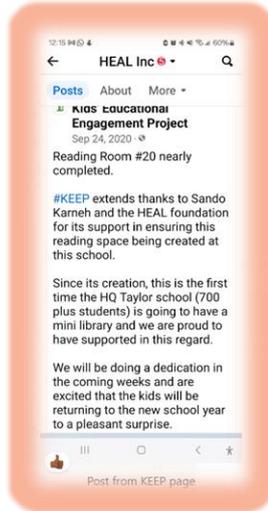

The impact of this new reading room will extend far beyond the school walls. It has the potential to ignite a passion for reading within the community, fostering a culture of knowledge and exploration that benefits everyone.

Thanks to the generous donations of many through HEAL, this library will impact 500 young minds at the HQ Taylor Junior and Senior High School.

Partnering with KEEP gave us a leverage and enabled us jointly support the school children but their community as a whole.

We collectively thank everyone who made this partnership work for the community.
